

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a method for actuating an electrically actuatable parking brake system, the brake torque on the braked wheels is reduced in order to prevent the wheels braked by the parking brake from locking when the vehicle is traveling at a vehicle speed exceeding a predetermined minimum speed and the wheel slip exceeds a defined threshold.